

Advantages of using a TRIARQ physical or occupational therapy practice:

Exceptional quality of care - be treated with dignity and respect

- TRIARQ regularly surveys patient satisfaction and quality of care and provides feedback to all practices.
- Enhance your confidence that top quality physical therapists are treating you. Each member practice is accredited and monitored by TRIARQ.
- Network therapists use evidence-based, post surgical educational protocols which help ensure consistency of care across TRIARQ member practices.
- The coordination of your care is improved because your physicians can upload their personal protocols to TRIARQ.com, for your therapists to use.

Consistent, scientifically-based care that addresses your health concerns

- Physical therapists have online access to evidence-based educational treatment protocols.
- Our rigorous Continuing Educational courses are mandatory for TRIARQ physical therapists.
- TRIARQ Physical Therapy practices meet annually to collaborate on the latest treatment advances.
- Educational material is continuously developed and up-dated by Board Certified physicians with oversight by a Medical Advisory Board.

TRIARQ Physical Therapists are easy to find, easy to talk to, and give you the time that you need

- You can easily find a local TRIARQ member practice via TRIARQ.com.
- TRIARQ.com has all the important information you need on any member physical therapy practice. This includes information on which insurances are accepted.

US healthcare is in crisis. Who you can trust for your Physical Therapy?

There are over 25,000 physical and occupational therapy practices to choose from in the tri-state area.

How do you know if you are receiving “state of the art” treatment?

A recent Harvard Business School study determined it takes, on average, seventeen years for the results of clinical trials to become standard clinical practice. That huge delay - much longer than in most industries - contributes to low and uneven quality of care.

Quality varies markedly across regions and among providers. Dartmouth research on Medicare, found not only that there were very different practice standards in different regions, but also that there was no basis in medical theory or medical evidence for these variations.

Does your doctor know what your physical therapist is doing?

A 2009 NPR, Kaiser Family Foundation, and Harvard School of Public Health survey found that 44% of Americans believe there is a problem with the coordination among health professionals.

Start your recovery TODAY! Save time and money!

The average delay for you to see a physician can be several weeks. TRIARQ enhances your direct access to licensed physical therapists, without a physician's referral. This will expedite your treatment and save you time and money!

Questions to consider when choosing your physical therapist?

- Will I be treated with dignity and respect?
- Will they listen carefully to my health concerns?
- Will they be easy to talk to?
- Will they take my concerns seriously?
- Will they spend enough time with me?
- Do they truly care about me and my health?
- Will they coordinate my treatment with my physician?
